KFJC History Lesson

1959
At 8 p.m. on October 20, KFJC station manager Bob Ballou spoke the first words ever to be heard on KFJC, broadcasts from a broom closet at the old Foothill Junior College campus in Mountain View, California. Ballou's actual remarks are lost in the great beyond. Broadcasts took place Monday through Thursday, between 5 and 7 p.m. only, with programming such as the popular "Background to Study By".

1961
The new Foothill College campus in Los Altos Hills opens.

1968

1970
KFJC offered a week long open mic for the community during the nationwide student strike.

1974
KFJC starts broadcasting in stereo.

1978
On October 4, five student managers at KFJC voted to overthrow the general manager in reaction to his aggressive emphasis on right formulating following mainstream radio industry practices. The students take control of KFJC, waving high the banner of Punk. This is a defining moment in KFJC history.

1980
KFJC increased its power from 10 to 250 watts, and started broadcasting 24 hours a day.

1983
Starting August 19th, KFJC captured the attention of the Wall Street Journal (and the rest of the world) with the definitive "Maximum Louie Louie" marathon that ran for over 63 hours and featured 823 versions, including "Louie" songwriter Richard Berry performing his song live on the air.

1984
The KFJC studios are enlarged and remodeled, finally adding a bathroom. Legend decrees that it's never been clean since then.

1993
In September, KFJC introduced the now-annual fundraising "Punny Patch" remote broadcasts, followed by KFJC's first on-air fundraiser in October.

1994
KFJC issued its first CD release, "Summer Surf", as part of the 1994 fundraising effort.

1996
In January, KFJC had its first-ever international remote broadcast, live from JJJ studio in Brighton, England, presenting four bands over two weekends.

1998
In March, KFJC broadcast live from TerraTrek II in San Francisco.

2000
In October, KFJC travelled to Dunedin, New Zealand, for six nights of remote broadcasts, featuring 15 bands.

2002-2003
Two of the KFJC studios are once again remodeled, this time upgrading to digital boards. The Live Mic board is also upgraded, allowing for 24 track recording, both in the studio and for remote broadcasts.

2004
KFJC celebrates 45 years on the air with the release of a 45 rpm single, and an entire day of 45 rpm programming on Sunday, October 31.
